WE NOMINATE

the 50 members of Princeton University's 1950 varsity football squad who this week—in a stadium dedicated in the early stages of World War 1—will be raising the curtain on Old Nassau's 81st year of football and carrying forward a national tradition that can be meaningly described as "America's Annual Autumnal Madness." Drawn from all sections of the country, and from varied economic backgrounds, this remarkable group of young men constitutes a cross-section of the generation which will first feel the jarring impact of world events and will shoulder a major share of the country's all-out preparedness program.

It is conceivable that Princeton's mid-century gridiron combination, and its counterparts throughout the United States, may well be ushering in the last of the so-called "normal peacetime football seasons," for Federal manpower consultants stress the possibility of having one out of every three of this year's college undergraduates under arms by September, 1951, regardless of what might transpire in the East-West impasse. While draft postponements are in order for the academic year 1950-51, the effects of accelerated mobilization on the lives of 20 seniors, 13 juniors and 17 sophomores, now ranging in age from 18 to 23, are apparent.

The most distinguishing characteristic of Coach Charles Caldwell's "new" team, his sixth since he assumed direction of football here, is the degree of balance personified in the achievements of its individual members. Honor grades are the rule rather than the exception and one defensive alignment, if football designations were disregarded, would read in part like this: president of the senior class, captain of varsity baseball, vice-president of the senior class, honor student in engineering, officer of premedical society, director of a student employment agency, vice-president of junior class.

Playing football at a front-rank university, where sport is looked upon as part of the total college experience rather than as a campus career in itself, means sacrifices on the part of the undergraduates concerned. Consequently, it is re-assuring to know that a slightly built senior holds one of the Hibben Memorial Scholarships, awarded on the basis of "outstanding scholarship, character and promise." Another senior is a James H. McGraw Scholar in Engineering and a third member of the Class of 1951 has won a first-string assignment after having failed to make his freshman team.

For their potentialities as citizens and leaders of tomorrow; for exemplifying the best intercollegiate sport has to offer as a training-ground for the future; for adding immeasurably to the fullness of Princeton Life in the fall; these Football Tigers of 1950 are TOWN TOPICS nominees for Random Notes. The pipeline which will carry natural gas from Texas to New York is now being laid in Princeton Township, with sections about three feet in diameter going down along a strip of land leading across the Province Line Road, Pretty Brook and Cherry Hill.

Mischief-makers are jamming some meters by twisting pennies with a pair of pliers before inserting them. Collections, incidentally, are running ahead of municipal expectation although at one time they were neck and neck with fines for violations.

Sign of military preparedness: a drugstore counter stocked with "Bazooka—the Atom Bubble Gum."

A 20-year old Texan charged with stealing a car in Elizabeth wrecked it early Tuesday morning at the corner of Nassau and Cedar Lane, turning over three times after police had engaged him in an 80-mile an hour chase down Prospect Avenue.

The big clock football fans will see again Saturday at the open end of Palmer Stadium isn't started when the season begins—it runs through all knds of weather the year round.

Housewives will be glad to know that while eggs are increasing in price, their size is also greater. The State Department of Agriculture says that poultry farmers are now ordering larger boxes for packing them as the result of a better breeding program launched some years ago.

The smoke haze from Canada that has made the sun look like a flying saucer and aided in giving Princeton its coldest September 25 on record is an atmospheric phenomenon that hasn't been duplicated since 1883. That was the year when Krakatoa blew its top, killing 36,000 people and sending a haze of volcanic dust around the world.

The Wine & Game Shop is giving away a joke book in one of whose cartoons a man is explaining his troubles to a bartender with the comment: "My best friend ran away with my wife, and I miss him!"

Facts and Figures. At newsstands and at booths set up in the business section this weekend, a new booklet entitled "Know Your Town" is going on sale. Compiled by some 70 members of the Princeton League of Women Voters, the publication is a fact-crammed digest of what makes the town run. But despite 100 pages of graphs, charts and text on topics ranging from finance, education and welfare to housing, planning and zoning, none of it is dull reading. On the contrary, it is extremely difficult to put the book down.

The reason is obvious: for the first time in its long history, Princeton has been presented with a compact source of information about the community itself, one that is an interesting concisely-written explanation of what occurs daily at the municipal level. It is, in addition, a particularly useful reference book, carrying directories of public officials, churches, schools, clubs, organizations and businesses.

Officers of the league for the current year are Mrs. Benton Schrader, president; Mrs. David H. Jones, first vice-president; Mrs. Edward F. D'Arms, second vice-president;

Mrs. Jess Epstein, third vice-president; Mrs. Martin Schwarzschild, treasurer; Mrs. Stanley C. Smoyer, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard C. Snyder, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Mark Heald and Mrs. William Lockwood, members-at-large.

The service performed by the 70 members of the organization in compiling and publishing the book under their direction is real. At 50 cents a copy, it is quite a buy.

Changes Coming. When they become official, the 1950 census figures will have a distinct effect on two aspects of municipal activity in Princeton. Both are expected to take place next year.

Voting machines, required of every county with a population of more than 200,000, have been ordered by the board of freeholders. Voters will no longer place an X in a square before a candidate's name but will pull a lever to cast their ballot for him. Full returns will be available an hour after the polls close, not two or three hours after midnight.

In the township, whose 1950 population was unofficially reported as 5,390, an increase of two committee members—raising the number to five—appears mandatory. The law states that such a number must govern in any township where more than 4,500 persons live.

Meanwhile, in the borough no one still had any inkling of how its current population should be listed. Federal census officials had gotten themselves royally confused about what they did with the municipality's 3,000-odd students in 1940 (when they were supposedly not assigned to the borough) and its 4,200 students this year (when the government said they were.) The resultant claim that there had been a net loss of 90 over the past decade was irritating only as an example of gross inaccuracy that might never be corrected.

Display Planned. Princeton Bank and Trust Company is completing plans to mark its 116th anniversary in mid-October with an unusual exhibit. Through the cooperation of the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia, various types of coins and currency circulated from the early colonial period until the present will be on display for four days.

Dates are Tuesday, October 10, through Friday of that week, with the last day marking the date in 1834 when the bank first opened its doors. On the 12th, Columbus Day, the bank will remain open to permit school children to attend.

Miscellany. Emily Schureman, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs.

STYLE LEADER OF 1951 PACKARD LINE

Style leader of the new 1951 Packard line is the Patrician "400"—a car to pioneer a whole new era of fine-car development. Sleek lines of the daring, new functional body design combine with smartly-tailored "Fashion Forum" interiors to highlight this model, which is powered by a new Packard Thunderbolt engine. Ultramatic Drive is standard equipment. The new engine has a 7.8-to-1 compression ratio—the highest in the industry for full-size passenger car engines—and rates 155 h.p.

Other models in the 1951 Packard line are the "300" termed the new "Boss of the Road" and the "200," in seven body styles, including both soft-top and hard-top convertibles. Improved Ultramatic Drive, Packard's famed automatic transmission, is optional on these models at slight extra cost.

In the new line, rear seat passengers sit even further ahead of the rear axle to give an improved "Limousine Ride." Lowered hood line enhances the "Guide-Line" fenders. Wrap-around, three-piece rear windows, together with a new curved one-piece windshield, afford "Horizon-View" visibility.

The Patrician "400" and "300" are on a 127-inch wheelbase, while the "200" models have a longer 122-inch wheelbase.

It's New to Us

New Evening Dresses. It looks as if Cinderella's fairy godmother had been busy waving her wand at Mary Gill, Inc., 230 Nassau Street, this last week or two. Each dress in a new collection of "net-plus" creations is a potential belle-of-the-ball-maker.

Net has been used as a basis; satin, brocade, taffeta, sequins or metallic embroidery have been added to it. The result is that the dresses are lovely, unusual and almost impossible to choose between, either for wearing or writing-up purposes. However, we finally managed to select a few for the latter.

One of the most striking is a full-skirted white net over taffeta model, topped by a bodice with a sweetheart neckline and low, pointed waist. Below the waist is a huge all-around peplum of net, delicately laced with golden embroidery, which falls down to a low point both in front and back. Gold-embroidered bands over the shoulder widen to a V-neck effect in back.

Soft aqua net (again over taffeta) has been used with silver embroidery in another dress. This one has it all over the full skirt; while the gathered bodice is perfectly unadorned but for a net stole, which is entirely new in that it's attached at the front of the shoulders. Another effective use of the new attached stole is in a white net model with a scarlet stole attached at one shoulder that drapes softly around the back, falls across the bodice diagonally and comes down to the waistline where it turns into a scarlet panel all the way down the side of the dess. An enormous rose at the waist accentuates the dramatic effect.

Velvet and net are handsomely combined in a scarlet dress that has a hip-length, halter-top bodice over a full net skirt that is dotted with gold sequins. A large, perky sequin-dotted net bow at the base of the V-neck and a matching panel across the back ties the whole dress together in intriguing fashion. We could go on at length if we could! However, we hope that we've given some idea of the variety of the dresses, which range from jeune-fille to sophisticate, all with a new, distinctive and expensive look, but none of which cost over $39.95. They start at $25 in sizes 9-15.

Syracuse China. For those of you who don't know the name "Syracuse" as applied to china, we'll just say that it's a really fine American china (not pottery) with an imported look at an agreeable American price. The Cummins Shop, 96 Nassau, has just been appointed the Princeton agency for the Syracuse line; and it seems to us a timely appointment on two counts. One is that Syracuse has just brought out three decorative new patterns; the other is that The Cummins Shop has recently completed an alteration and redecoration job, which is not only attractive, but, by dint of drawers that slide in and out easily, makes it a simple matter to view their complete assortment of available china.

The brand new Syracuse patterns include "Gardenia," "Dawn" and "Jewel Tree." All of them have a white background and a handsome fluted effect on the wide rims. "Gardenia" is just about what it sounds like, separate gardenia

James Schureman of 123 Cedar Lane, is in Princeton Hospital with polio, the only new case in the past week. Dr. Harry R. McPhee, president of the board of health, reports but six cases this month and no cause for alarm.

David T. Blake has been appointed borough health officer, replacing his father, William C. Blake, whose retirement is effective October 1 for reasons of health. An Army veteran, the younger Blake is a native Princetonian.

Sons have been born to Mr. & Mrs. Leo McCloskey, 21 Bank; Mr. & Mrs. Leighton M. Laughlin, Cherry Valley Road; daughters to Mr. & Mrs. Robert C. Hoffman, 66 Wiggins; Mr. & Mrs. Kenneth T. McQueen, 217-D Halsey; Mr. & Mrs. Charles Bieber Jr., 27 Jefferson.

Cooking fat which caught fire at Renwick's shortly after noon Sunday necessitated emptying the restaurant until the smoke cleared but it reopened shortly thereafter . . . Lahiere's experienced a similar blaze just before midnight Tuesday . . . music and entertainment are on the program Friday night for the AVC's annual dance at Avalon, with the affair open to the public at $1 per person.

The high school parent-teacher association is again planning to conduct a drive for magazine subscriptions as a fund-raising project for the scholarships it awards each year. Those who have renewals are asked to send them, with checks, to Mrs. David H. Jones, 177 Jefferson Road, since the association's percentage is the same on new subscriptions. A drive for new subscriptions will be held early next month.

James H. Banks of 181 Witherspoon Street, retiring as custodian of the Witherspoon School after 36 years of service, was cited by B. Woodhull Davis, supervising principal, as the "most courteous employee in the public schools system. We have never had any complaints from him or about him," Mr. Davis said.

Freeholder Edward A. Thorne will be given a testimonial dinner at the Hotel Hildebrecht, Trenton, on Sunday in recognition of his election as president of the State Pharmaceutical Association . . . leaders from the field of medicine, as well as cancer and polio prevention and representatives of civic groups will be present.

Proceeds from its May bazaars have enabled the Central Jersey Wellesley Club to plan on offering a girl from this area a scholarship beginning in the fall of 1951. Princeton residents who are officers this year include Mrs. Frank T. Gorman, president; Mrs. Paul T. Stafford, vice president; Mrs. Douglas Alden, recording secretary; Mrs. Edward L. Lloyd, Jr., treasurer.

In Griggstown, a drive for funds for Mrs. Jane Tjomstol, victim of a brutal attack last month, has reached the $1,500 mark . . . she remains in critical but slightly improved condition in Princeton Hospital, unable to recall or describe her assailants.

THE McCARTER

If producer Kermit Bloomgarden cuts Act II of his new comedy, "Legend of Sarah," which opened Saturday at the McCarter, and steps up the pace of the whole show in some small degree, Broadway will soon have another tenant likely to stay for the fall and winter seasons. The cast (principally Marsha Hunt and Ethel Griffies, upheld by Judith Parrish as an outspoken maid) is strictly first-string; the dialogue is rapid and broadly humorous; the situations deal happily in sophisticated sex. In this day and age, the combination is a sure-fire formula for box office success.

The McCarter's next play moves in for a two-day stand next Friday and Saturday. A British comedy bound for New York, it is the work of Frederick Lonsdale and features Beatrice Pearson, Melville Cooper and four unrelated Englishmen who look enough alike to be brothers—as they are supposed to in the play.

UNIVERSITY CONCERTS

The 57th season of Princeton University Concerts will open October 15. Details in full are on page 10 of this issue; those who did not subscribe when the initial announcement was made last Spring should send in their checks immediately. The concerts are offered at cost or below, with a fund established in memory of Mrs. Henry B. Fine underwriting a part of the expense.

The three artists and two orchestras engaged to play in Series I need little introduction. The Albenari Trio, whose five chamber music recitals will constitute Series II, holds a place in the first rank among such groups of musicians.

European-born, they have been well received on two continents. Subscribers to this series will hear top performances of the great Schubert nnd Beethoven violin, piano and 'cello trios.

Sports in Short

Opener on Tap. Eight years ago, Charlie Caldwell brought his Purple-clad Williams eleven down from the Berkshire hills and plastered a 19-7 beating on a thoroughly surprised Princeton team. It is within reason to suppose that the affable Tiger coach has given some thought as to how he would feel late Saturday afternoon if his Big Three champions fall victim to a similar ambush. Saturday's clash at 2 in Palmer Stadium will launch Old Nassau's 81st season on the bechalked greensward.

The invaders from Massachusetts have all that a small college can hope for in assuming the role of giant killer. Little Three champions after losing but two of their eight games in 1949, they have 24 lettermen and a promising group of sophomores pointing for what is in some respects the biggest game on their schedule.

Graduation hit the line fairly hard, save for the ends, but the backfield is able and at least two deep at every spot. Names to listen for as the visitors unfold their split T attack include Captain Pete Delisser, hard-running halfback; John Kulsar, an able quarterback and ball handler; Bill Sperry, a good passer; Joe Ferri, Bob Hunt and Paul Cramer.

However, while the possibility of an upset is always there, the likelihood is not great. Off its first four weeks of practice—one more than it had before last year's opener with Lafayette—Princeton is coming up with a football team that should rank close to the top in this section of the nation.

The squad reported in better condition than last year's, and has had the benefit of unusually cool September weather. Loss of Ralph Willis, substitute quarterback, puts a premium on the continuing availability of Captain George Chandler, and loss of tackle Dick Valentzas for two weeks has somewhat complicated the tackle positions, but there is still more depth to the squad than any Orange and Black contingent in a decade.

The Tigers are ready, have set their sights on a fourth Big Three title in a row and a repeat of last year's 6-and-3 record. By the time the Navy game has been played two weeks from tomorrow, it will be possible to tell whether 7-and-2 is within reason. Talk of 9-for-9 is, however, quite illogical.

Princeton's offensive lineup reads about like this:

'I'D SURE HATE TO HAVE HIM PLAYING AGAINST US!'

That's how Dick Colman, Princeton's line coach, feels about his 228-pound tackle, Hollie Donan. The Nassau senior, a pre-season likelihood for All-American honors, will spend enough time in the opposing backfield to rank as a one-man pass defense.

as the line buster. Other backs who will get a whirl are Jack Newell, Buzz Taylor, Russ McNeil, Tom Mangan, Bill Tryon and Ed Janotta.

If the Tiger has his way, these developments will unfold:

A rather impressive showing by the starting backfield, with Chandler, Kazmaier and Davison picking up where they left off last Fall and Unger giving a good exhibition as a broken field runner. They went 46 yards for a TD in the first three plays against Columbia last weekend.

Improvement in considerable degree by Jake McCandless as a runner. Ability in the same line by Harry Patterson as an understudy for Davison. Bunnell and Emery in the role of capable pass-receivers; sophomore Frank McPhee doubling on offense as an end.

Defensively, watch Dave Hickok as a line backer and Hollie Donan, who is on his way toward becoming the greatest tackle in Princeton history. Half the time, the 6-5, 228-pounder just throws his quarry down.

Sophomores who have come along well in addition to Unger and McPhee, are Brad Glass, 202-pound guard who appears to have nailed down a starting berth; Hank Doerfler, who is being counted on to help plug the hole left by Dick Valentzas, and Penn and Cornell last Fall, is being remedied by Unger and Newell. Junior Russ McNeil is also improved, and all three may be called on Saturday—provided, of course, the quota of touchdowns permits.

The longest consecutive scoring streak in Princeton history will go on the line again this weekend. The Tigers are working on 36 straight games in which they have accounted for two or more points. The only Caldwell-coached Princeton team ever to be blanked went down before Penn, 28-0, five years ago this Fall.

In addition to the Nassau head coach, who was at Williams from 1928 to 1944, two others on the Princeton staff have close association with this weekend's opponent. Dick Colman, a member of the class of '37 there, won awards in five different sports, while Johnny Stiegman '43 was another outstanding athlete there.

School Football. At Princeton High, Coach Joe Jingoli looks for "an improved squad" over the 1949 aggregation, which began a year ago with one returning veteran. This year, eight boys with considerable experience gives him a much firmer foundation on which to build.

Mel Sanders, Tom Perks and Sam Lisi are the primary choices

Defensively, it will go this way: Bob Chamberlin and sophomore Frank McPhee, ends; Hollie Donan and Kline or sophomore Bill Ellis, tackles; sophomore Brad Glass and Joe Zawadsky or Merle Schmidt, guards; Dave Hickok and sophomore Canfield Brown, line backers; John McGillicuddy or Will Prior, left half; Davison or sophomore Harry Patterson, right half; Dick Pivirotto, fullback.

Immediate reserve strength will include Ed Reed and Len Lyon, offensive ends; Cliff Kurrus and Tom Hennon, defensive ends; Chuck Hemminger and Culver Smith, tackles; Marty Mayer, Vic Bihl, Bill Jannen and Hal Urschel, guards; Frank Reichel and Ted McClain, centers.

The second-string backfield will find George Stevens calling signals, 164-pound Bill Kleinsasser at tailback, Jake McCandless going in for Dick Kazmaier and Harry Patterson taking over for Jack Davison to move in when the Blue and White goes on defense. Jingoli believes the school will be in a position to give every team on its schedule a solid fight all the way.

Hun School will start next Friday, with a trip to Montclair Academy. October 13 is still open, and thereafter the Red and Black will face St. Bernard's, October 21; Solebury away on October 27; Morristown, November 4; Delbarton, away, November 10; and Pingry on November 17.

A 35-man squad has been working out for the past ten days under Coach Josh Miner. Tom Hartmann and Bill Stewart are also on the staff, which is seeking to repeat last year's fine record of 5-and-1.

Title at Stake. Vince Ferrara of the Watch Shop and Carlo Arcamone, a former Humbert Street resident who works at The Princeton Film Center, will meet Sunday for the championship of the Hopewell Valley Golf Club. The two will battle it out over 36 holes to determine who will succeed Walter "Bud" Tash as the titleist.

End of the Trail. Three-hit pitching by Ken Eiker of Hightstown sent Princeton's Twin-M baseball team down to a 9-1 defeat Sunday in the deciding game of the play-offs. Eiker bested Bob DiGiovanni and Dave Ogonofski for his second victory in the series. The losers' only run came when Jim Kopliner singled Larry Friel home in the fifth, barely denting Hightstown's 4-0 lead.

NEWS OF THE THEATRES

evening or for the entire series may be purchased:

THE PLAYHOUSE

Sunset Boulevard (Thurs.-Sat.) marks the return of Gloria Swanson to the screen in a strongly-written piece that seems semi-biographical in nature. It is the story of a star of the silent films, living in a delusion of grandeur who plans for a triumphant return to the screen. To engineer it, she hires and keeps (in all senses of the word) a young, unsuccessful but ambitious scriptwriter (William Holden). A powerfully-told, realistic story, much of it a reflection of Hollywood at its worst, emerges and benefits in large degree from fine acting and impressive photography.

Petty Girl (Sun.-Tues.) is no more, no less than what the title implies: a prettily-illustrated piece about the artist famed for his pictures of feminine pulchritude. In that role, Robert Cummings proves to a Victorian-minded college professor (Joan Caulfield) that her legs can serve other than ambulatory purposes, while a dozen pin-ups parade through various scenes. It's pleasant as light entertainment goes.

Mister 880 (Wed.-Sat.) is the Secret Service file number for a counterfeiter who makes highly amateurish $1 bills. Genial Edmund Gwenn is cast in the principal role of a thoroughly likeable ne'er-do-well who affably grinds out greenbacks and fools the government for years. Dorothy McGuire and Burt Lancaster have leading roles, adding to the general enjoyment.

THE GARDEN

Wagonmaster (Fri.-Sat.), a musical western, portrays the trek westward of a band of Mormons who seek religious freedom and encounter various hardships, including a battle with outlaws, before they achieve their goal. Imaginative direction by John Ford assures satisfactory entertainment from a somewhat stereotyped film. With Ben Johnson, Joanne Dru, Harry Carey, Jr.

Kind Hearts and Coronets (Mon.-Wed).) records the acts of a would-be British nobleman (Dennis Price) as he lightheartedly but systematically kills off the eight people who stand between him and the dukedom to which he aspires. All eight, incidentally, are played by Alec Guinness in masterful style. Story, treatment and character portrayal make this English importation one of 1950's better pictures.

Pretty Baby (Thurs.-Sat.) uses a mistaken identity theme for its laughter, as a motherless woman takes a doll on the subway so men will offer her a seat. That's the start of a series of madcap incidents, none of which is ever very amusing. With Dennis Morgan, Betsy Drake.

blossoms with green leaves and a bud which go all the way around the plates, with the scalloped edge finished off with a thin line of gold.

"Dawn" is a simple, more modern pattern. Sprays of gray leaves, almost feather-shaped, decorate one side of the china, leaving the other unembellished. For those of you who love color and lots of it, there's "Jewel Tree," a collection of various kinds and colors of flowers splashed across the whole plate.

The entire selection of Syracuse patterns is due to be complete at The Cummins Shop shortly. When it is, prices for one place setting—dinner, salad and bread and butter plates, cup and saucer—will range from $4 to $12, which is comparatively little for china of this quality.

Savory of Bristol, Christmas, 1950. We've always thought that Savory of Bristol, England, had more to offer in the Christmas card line than almost any one company we can think of; and if you agree, you may be interested to know that their complete line, including 1950 additions, is available for the first time here at The Witherspoon Art and Book Shop, 33 Witherspoon.

Once more we run into our old problem. We don't begin to have the space to describe the amazing variety of cards which they offer; so again, we'll have to let coverage of a few give you an idea of the many, which include wood engravings, sporting prints, reproductions of famous Madonna paintings, humorous cards, purely decorative cards and some wonderful, completely unique stained glass window effects.

Among the new additions, all of which should be seen, etc., are a color drawing of the Cathedral of Wells by Michael Reilly; a wood engraving of interesting trees in front of a hill-country chapel; cut-out scenes of the Madonna and Child or old English churchgoers against a shining metallic background; modernized paintings by de Beauvoir of the famous "Cries of London;" features of 18th Century London life immortalized by the Wheatley engravings; a brilliant multi-colored Christmas tree that actually looks as if its balls were real and its lights turned on.

Perhaps the most unique are a large trypitch, which has on its panels three of the gorgeous, stained-glass-window-like religious scenes and another amazing card which rates a complete description of its own. The cover of the card is actually a piece of 200-year old parchment deed, in itself fascinating to decipher, sealed in a red wax replica of the original seal granted to the City of Bristol in 1275.

If price is all-important to you, the Savory cards won't fit in with your needs—they start at 25 cents; but if you're in the market for really beautiful, distinctive cards, you should find it hard to make a choice. Many of the cards, which are well worth framing, justify their cost by being good enough to give as actual gifts.

And—important point—if you're interested in them, October 10th is the deadline for ordering, since they come from England. Mrs. Hoadley of the Art and Book Shop will be glad to bring the album to your house any evening so that you can select in comfort. Just call her at 3442-J during the evening.
